The conference is hosted each year in Tyumen, Western Siberia, Russia.

Contributions prepared for III Siberian Legal Forum will be considered for inclusion in a special issue of the BRICS Law Journal. The BRICS Law Journal, launched in 2014, is an open access, internationally peer-reviewed journal, indexed by SCOPUS and HeinOnline, whose mission is the creation and sustainment of open dialogue among legal researchers and practitioners from around the world. The BRICS Law Journal serves as a particularly useful resource for the BRICS group by offering a means by which BRICS may: (1) seek convergence among its members, while recognizing their different priorities and approaches; and (2) prepare and present a common position, which would carry the weight of the entire group in the global arena.

With the aim of bringing the BRICS group together and fostering international collaboration and dialogue, we cordially invite you to submit your research abstract for consideration to the III Siberian Forum Organizing Committee at siberianforum3@gmail.com or contact the Committee for further information.

The closing date to register for participation is 30 August 2018. Early submissions are encouraged.
